

Those flushable wipes AREN'T flushable!

Wipes — even those labeled “flushable” — and other commonly flushed items could cause serious trouble to your home’s vital plumbing lines and the public sewer system.

Unlike toilet paper, many products don't break down once they're flushed. They can clog your plumbing and sewer pipes, possibly causing a huge mess and leaving you with a nasty repair bill.

On a larger scale, those products that do manage to make their way out of your home will find their way into the public sewer system. That's where they can collect and cause blockages in the sewer mains, resulting in larger service problems like sewer backups.

Commonly flushed items that should NOT be flushed:
